Florida Council For The Blind Seeks More Jobs

The Florida Council for the Blind has disputed a nationally distributed news report which states that private industry is failing to absorb job-trained blind persons in the ranks of the employed.

The Associated Press article said that the "ageist group" of trained blind persons seeking employment "sometimes must wait out of tune with the times because thousands can work and can't find jobs."

Mack Martin, executive director of the Florida Council for the blind, said almost the opposite is true in Florida.

"We feel uneasy sometimes about approaching industry in an attempt to encourage them to employ the blind," Martin said, "because they are often willing to hire more trained blind persons than we are able to train to meet industry's need."

Martin said the real problem was to get increased state funds for the rehabilitation program so the council could rehabilitate more of the blind who are willing to work for a living.

The Associated Press article claimed that of the "nation's 4,250,000 legally blind citizens, only 11,000... have regular jobs, many of them paying close to the minimum wage."

"Those that are employed often work in factories especially designed for the blind," the article said, "and although blind workers have given credit in existing factory jobs, their livelihood often is based on dust-cloths and brooms and such."

Martin said that less than nine per cent of the blind persons rehabilitated nationwide during the last fiscal year were employed in sheltered workshops for handicapped persons.

Only 3.1 per cent of those rehabilitated in Florida were employed in these workshops, Martin said.

National statistics released by the Rehabilitation Services Administration of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare show that during the last fiscal year of over 6,000 blind persons rehabilitated over 42 per cent were placed in professional and skilled jobs.

Martin said that in Florida, 60 per cent of the rehabilitated clients were placed in professional and skilled jobs.

Martin said that the Council has an increasing number of young clients who want to finish school and go on to college to prepare themselves for professional careers.

He said that the Council, which is primarily a vocational rehabilitation agency, is putting more emphasis on developing programs for better educating blind students and for training blind adults for skilled jobs.

"Every industry which has ever employed a blind person knows that they are very conscientious and reliable workers," Martin said.

Martin said that the Council's only actual training program, which is still in the experimental stage, is training blind persons for skilled jobs in the growing electronics industry in Florida.

"We expect to get every one of these blind persons a job here in Florida when they have finished their training," Martin said.

MISS VIRGINIA BUCHANON

Buchanan-Lamb To Marry Aug. 4

Mr. and Mrs. Whitman Thomas, 108 N.E. 1st St., Apt. F, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter Virginia Buchanan to Calvin Lamb.

Mr. Lamb is the son of Calvin L. Lamb, Rt. 5, Box 239, Tupelo, Miss., and Mrs. Ruth Mackey, North Spring Street, Tupelo, Miss.

Miss Buchanan, a 1967 graduate of Belle Glade High School, was previously enrolled in the nursing department at Palm Beach Vocational School, and is presently employed at the Holiday Inn.

Mr. Lamb is employed with the Belle Glade Police Dept.

The ceremony will take place at the First Baptist Church, Aug. 4, at 3 p.m.

All friends and relatives of the couple are invited to attend. No invitations are being sent.

VACATIONING HERE AND THERE

Recent house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Anderson were their sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Meldrum, and family from Halifax Co., Nova Scotia, Canada. The Meldrums have eight children but were accompanied by five of them.

The three older boys, Eric, 17, Steven, 16, and Kenneth, 15, remained at home.

Combining the four Anderson children and the five Meldrums, nearly all ages were represented.

The oldest was Gerald Meldrum, Jr., 13, next Gary Meldrum, 12, Charles Anderson, 11, Richard Meldrum, 9, Bill Anderson, 8, Linda Anderson, 7, Eileen Meldrum, 6, Paula Anderson, 5, and Tony Meldrum, 4.

A big highlight of the children's visit was a trip to Crandon Park Zoo. They complained that the water was too hot to swim in. Mr. and Mrs. Meldrum said they liked Florida but they thought they could stand the Florida hot summer.

Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Cone and son, Carl T., have just returned home after a two week vacation at Pigeon View Ranch in Asheville, North Carolina. While there they visited their daughter and family, the Kenneth Coners, who have recently been transferred to Richmond, Virginia from Jacksonville. Mr. Conner is district manager for Orkin Exterminators in the state of Virginia.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Owens and family spent the week end in Daytona Beach visiting with his sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Alford Vadaz have just returned from a 3-week vacation in Cedar, Arkansas. While there, they were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Doss Tabb, former Belle Glade residents. They were joined later by their daughter Karol, who works at the reservation desk for United Airlines in Washington, D.C., and a friend of hers, Jerry Stewart, also from Washington, D.C. They flew to Memphis, Tenn., where they were met by Mr. and Mrs. Vadaz. During their stay in Cedar, Mr. Alford, Mr. Stewart, and Karol enjoyed a 16-mile float down one of the Arkansas rivers where they caught their limit of six each Rainbow trout. Mrs. Vadaz said the fish were "delicious."

Carswell's And Martin's Take Trip To Smokies

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Martin and Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Carswell, Jr., and girls, Cindy, Julia, and Robin, have returned from a very relaxing camping trip to the Smoky Mountains.

While there, they camped in Realty Cove Camp Grounds near Whittier, N.C. The children enjoyed many types of recreation. There were hikes through the mountains and sports such as table tennis, badminton, horseshoes, volleyball, tetherball and basketball. Every one also enjoyed the swimming pool. There were no hikes on Sunday, but Sunday School for those who wished to go at 10 a.m., and free movies each night except Sunday and Wednesday. While there, the group attended the open air theater show "Uno These Hills."

Mr. Martin, Mr. Carswell, and Cindy went Rainbow trout fishing at Warty's Lake. They had a good catch, and "were they ever good," they said.

With camping over, the Carswells returned to their home at 530 S.E. 2nd St., and the Martins visited friends in Oakdale, Tenn. They then went to Anniston, Ala., where they visited Mr. Martin's niece and family, Alvin, to see Mrs. Martin's sister and family, the C. J. Willoughby's. They visited Rev. Hamp Gunter, Mrs. Martin's great uncle, at Enterprise, Ala., who is a retired Baptist minister who will be 93 years old in October. On their way back home, the Martins stopped in Ocala and visited with the Campbell family, formerly of Belle Glade. Mrs. Campbell is Mr. Martin's sister.

THE HUNGER SMEAR

The blackening of the reputation of the United States is carried out in a variety of ways in this time of protest and truth-telling. But none of these is more unfair and vicious than the presentation of America as a land of hunger and of starving children.

Fortunately, some congressional leaders have moved quickly to counter the deliberate tarnishing of America's reputation. This Rep. W. R. Poage (D-Tex.), Chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, has condemned as "inaccurate and misleading" the charge that the United States has 25 million "hunger" counties in the United States.

This report, released by the Office of Economic Opportunity, cited some of the most progressive counties in the country as "hunger" counties.

Unfortunately, some members of Congress are using such misleading reports to push the federal government into bigger food giveaway programs. U.S. Rep. Frank Horton of New York is one of these Congressmen. He said that "hunger is an American national emergency. It is treated as a national problem, with the accompanying federal initiative."

Now, it cannot be disputed that some children go to bed hungry in this country, but that is a very different thing from describing America as a land of hunger. Furthermore, the reason that some children are hungry is not because of a failure in our economic system. No economic system, no set of government regulations, can give each child in this land responsible, hard-working parents. This is where the problem lies.

The advocates of federal food programs do not want to talk about it, but the fact is that such hunger as exists is largely the fault of parental failure and of weak moral fiber. Many of the children who are on insufficient diets in urban or rural slums are children born out of wedlock. The mothers in many cases are teenagers. No father is known, or the father refuses to accept any responsibility. Every social agency in the nation is familiar with this situation.

Yet the "liberals" decline to recognize this situation because they would have to accept the fact of irresponsibility on the part of the people involved. They would have to acknowledge that some elements in our society are unfit for parenthood and for no feeling of responsibility for children brought into this world.

means that the adults in the family are spending money that they are not entitled to spend. What this evidence proves is that such hunger as exists in America today is overwhelmingly the result of individual irresponsibility. An unfortunately large number of people are second-class citizens in that they do not accept responsibility for their own families. They look to Big Government to be super-parent for those who don't assume their share of the burden.

Much is said these days about sharing affluence and dignity with the poor. Well, the ends of justice aren't served when responsible citizens are asked to carry the irresponsible on their backs, when productive citizens are taxed to cover up the delinquency of adults who aren't fit for parenthood or first-class citizenship.

As for affluence, it can't be created by distributing more handouts, by redistributing existing wealth. Affluence will spread only as the desire to work spreads among those who currently are uninterested in making sufficient effort to give themselves a decent life.

As for human dignity, that also is a result of an individual's personal efforts and personal integrity. Congress can't by legislative act, by passage of a new Civil Rights law, for example, impose an inner quality of dignity on those who lack it. Dignity is an inner quality that must be earned through conscious striving, respect for law, and by self-discipline as opposed to dependence on Big Government. It is undeniable that all Americans have the ability to have a share in affluence. But individuals have to win these things for themselves. No one can do it for them.

Survival Capacity In Danger?

Concern about the nation's capacity to survive was voiced recently by Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

In a U.S. Senate subcommittee meeting, the general was asked by Sen. Stuart Symington whether he was "apprehensive about the survival capacity of the United States if things continue along these present lines."

"Yes," answered the general, but he qualified his answer, saying that he believed that the country was capable of reversing the unfavorable trend and that he hoped that it would do so.

The discussion had to do with military capacity and Gen. Wheeler had warned that our chief antagonist, Communist Russia, had been gaining on the U.S. in military capability during the past few years.

But someone is even more concerned about some other trends which have been considered unfavorable in recent years. Read to Catastrophe.

The trend toward increased crime and violence is one example. It is not exaggeration to say that no nation can survive over a long period of time if crime continually increases over time as fast as the increase in population.

Eventually there comes a break down completely. There comes chaos and the collapse of the existing government.

We are not saying when this will occur, but the trend must be reversed, or catastrophe will be the result.

The foolishness of our handling of the problem of increasing crime now seems to be apparent. Not everybody expects the Supreme Court and some high governmental officials.

WHAT'S NEW IN SCIENCE?

Radioisotope-powered "long johns" for deep-sea divers are being tested by the Navy. Plutonium-238, a by-product of the restoration of nuclear fuel, is used to heat water passed through a heat exchanger worn under a diver's rubber wet suit.

Also related to the underwater world is project "BOT," a manned habitat from which experiments could be conducted at depths of more than 12,000 feet. Preliminary studies have already been conducted under conditions equivalent to depths of 4,000 feet.

In another area of advanced work, scientists have succeeded, at least in part, in their quest for "artificial" iron. They have developed "pure" iron. Found only in the laboratory, the tiny iron crystals have a strength of 10 million pounds per square inch. They are being used to strengthen alloys in much the same way steel reinforces concrete.

NO PEACE TALKS

The public, or at least a large and hopeful segment of the public, has been led to believe peace talks in Vietnam are just that — peace talks. Yet a careful examination of the statements of the North Vietnamese spokesmen show that the Paris negotiations are not really peace talks in the accepted sense of the term.

In fact, the evidence is overwhelming that these are not peace talks.

For the North Vietnamese are a tactic as they continue the war. They have given the North Vietnamese a partial respite from U.S. bombing and enemy spokesmen are using them skillfully to play on the desire of the American people for peace.

The more serious question is whether the Johnson Administration has been true to its word, as various spokesmen say which offer a peace hope or whether the political has entered into the picture in this election year.

Some charge that present talks are, at least in part, a 1968 political maneuver designed to counter the unfavorable reaction of the public to the war, to create an image that peace is in the offing.

The new Defense Secretary, meanwhile, has said he sees no troop withdrawal in Vietnam before 1970. Our chief negotiator in Paris has rented a house for his family. And Secretary of State Dean Rusk, contrary to opinions being expressed by others, says he sees no peace straw in the wind.

Since negotiations have now been in progress for some time and no progress has been made, it appears increasingly that the talks in Paris are currently primarily a political and propaganda gesture.

ATTITUDES & PLATTITUDES

A PLATTITUDE is a truth so often said that it becomes a bore. Or to express it in a platitude voiced by Aesop 2,500 years ago, familiarity breeds contempt.

The fact that we may tire of hearing a truth, however, doesn't lessen its value as a guide to behavior. The Golden Rule is a platitude perhaps "more honored in the breach than the observance" — but that does not diminish its worth nor its practicality.

There is no fault in the platitude. The fault lies in the attitude, which can be disastrous — particularly in respect to driving an automobile.

There are quite enough platitudes in this regard: Speed can kill. Drive defensively. . . . If you drink, don't drive. . . . There is nothing wrong with any of them. Indeed, they're absolutely right. For everybody. But in the attitude of many of us they're for everybody else, not us.

Some drivers seem to operate quite contentedly by castigating everything and everybody but themselves. Their attitudes would indicate that the hazards of driving consist of an endless, unwinding panorama of fools behind other wheels, stupid pedestrians and defective vehicles. This is perhaps only human. It is also irresponsible.

When the circumstances are actually unfavorable to the driver. The more adverse the driving conditions, the fewer the accidents. It is when the weather is nasty, the highways treacherous and the traffic most congested that the driver's attitude is at its best. That is when he is aware of the common sense of what, at other times, may have seemed only threadbare axioms.

So, though it has been said to the point of boredom, it is an irrefutable fact that motor vehicle accidents are reduced by the practice of caution, courtesy and common sense.

Yet the rules and conventions of driving are largely platitudes. But no thinking person can deny that if they had been given greater heed during just one year, there would be alive today a host of people who at the same time 52,000 people who were killed in motor vehicle accidents during that year. Billions of accident victims would have been spared the discomforts of physical injury — many of them crippled for the rest of their days.

Any improvement in future years of the sorry record achieved on our streets and highways last year depends on whether enough of the so-called platitudes are accepted and enough attitudes are corrected by enough American drivers.

Don't Blame The Press

We have been in the newspaper business far too long to be overly sensitive to criticism. But we do have to admit that it gets under our skin when preachers, politicians and other public speakers blame the press, radio and television for much of the upheaval in the nation and around the world.

While we admit that the press is far from perfect in its reporting and interpreting of the news, we do take issue with those who try to make a scapegoat out of the nation's press. Those who ought to know better were not printed or broadcast, societies' perplexing problems would come out of the mouths of angels.

One of the favorite refrains of public speakers is that the nation's news media print and broadcast only the ugly, bad side of the news and make no attempt to tell the other, better side of man.

To dispel this theory, one has only to pick up any reputable publication or flick on the switch of any radio or television set. Many more columns of newspaper and magazine space are filled with news and feature articles which accentuate the positive than those which report crime, controversy or conflict.

A survey of our own weekly publication and those of our colleagues will show that less than ten percent of the news columns in each issue are filled with "bad" news, while the columns in the news section are filled with reports of community meetings, athletic contests, births, deaths, weddings and similar happenings of a routine nature.

Another false notion often heard is that press coverage actually encourages racial demonstrations and other protests because demonstrators and marchers need publicity in order to dramatize their cause. Those who are quick to blame the press are the same ones who oppose any action to alleviate the social conditions which are really to blame.

Perhaps those who see only the bad news in publications and on radio and television are so preoccupied with the evil side of life they fail to see the other brighter side of the news.

WHAT'S NEW IN SCIENCE?

Radioisotope-powered "long johns" for deep-sea divers are being tested by the Navy. Plutonium-238, a by-product of the restoration of nuclear fuel, is used to heat water passed through a heat exchanger worn under a diver's rubber wet suit.

Also related to the underwater world is project "BOT," a manned habitat from which experiments could be conducted at depths of more than 12,000 feet. Preliminary studies have already been conducted under conditions equivalent to depths of 4,000 feet.

In another area of advanced work, scientists have succeeded, at least in part, in their quest for "artificial" iron. They have developed "pure" iron. Found only in the laboratory, the tiny iron crystals have a strength of 10 million pounds per square inch. They are being used to strengthen alloys in much the same way steel reinforces concrete.

First Church of Christ Scientist

Sunday Service of August 4, 1968
"Beloved, let us love one another: for love is of God; and every one that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God. He that loveth not knoweth not God; for God is love."

These verses from 1 John are part of this week's Lesson-Sermon titled "Love" to be read in Christian Science churches all over the world.

The Lesson-Sermon also includes selected passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy. Among them is the following: "When we realize that there is one Mind, the divine law of love, unbroken as ourselves, we are unfettered; whereas a belief in many ruling minds hinders man's mind, one God, and leads him, man though into opposite channels where selfishness reigns."

Church Schedule

Everglades Presbyterian Church, Corner of Avenue K and N. Main Street, Leland Edmunds, Interim Pastor. Services are: 9:30 a.m. School of the Church; 11:00 a.m. Worship Service.

Read Psalm 8

The Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul. —Genesis 2:7

THE psalmist was filled with a deep sense of awe as he thought upon the greatness of God. When he turned his thoughts to man, he was aware of the vast difference between the Creator and the creature. Yet he recognized that man, too, is magnificent; "Thou hast made him a little lower than the angels, and hast crowned him with glory and honor."

We sometimes say of a horse, dog, or some other animal, "It is almost human." This is a great compliment, for there is nothing higher except God, with which it can be compared. Yet we sometimes use the word human as a synonym for weakness, even wickedness. We excuse someone by saying, "After all, he is only human."

Man in his inmost nature was made for great achievements, honor, and noble deeds. He has innate capacities to reason, love, create, and grow. He is the crown of all creation.

PRAYER: Creator God, keep us ever mindful of who we are, whose we are, and of the tremendous capacities with which Thou hast endowed us. "Thou hast made us for Thyself and we are restless until we rest in Thee." Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY
I was created for companionship with God, to think His thoughts.

Blankets, pillows and lots of food went to Ridgecrest with these excited young people.

S.B. Young People At Ridgecrest

Young people from the South Bay First Baptist Church will be attending Ridgecrest Baptist Assembly Sunday School week, July 25 through the 31st.

Cherokee people.

Approximately 3500 from all over the United States are expected to attend this meeting. Ridgecrest is located in the Blue Ridge mountains.

Mormon Church To Show Film On Ancient Peoples Of America

WOULD you like to know where the Indians came from and how they got their red skin? Why do every tribe of Indians have the legend of a Great White Father, whom the Indians mistake as Columbus and other Explorers? Also, why were some of the Indian tribes practicing a primitive form of baptism, when the first white man and monks came to them? How did the Great Calendar Wheel of the Aztec civilization make it easy for Cortez to take over the Aztec civilization? What is the explanation of the painting of white people and red skin people on the walls of the Temple of Warriors in Chichen, Yucatan, Mexico; which was painted long before Columbus even thought of going to the Spice Islands by the western waters? Also, why did the primitive Indians of Mexico have manuscripts and traditions about Noah and the Flood and also the Tower of Babel which they told the first white men that came to America?

If you want to know the answers to these questions, come to the meeting of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints at 601 N.E. Ave. A, at 7:30 on Sunday, August 4. They are going to show film strips on the ancient people of America. Everyone is invited to learn about all these things.

VBS To Begin At First Baptist Church, Aug. 5

Vacation Bible School will begin Monday, August 5, and be held through August 16, from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. for children from 3- to 12-years-old. This year an evening session of Bible School will be sponsored from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. for any interested intermediates or Young People.

Is This You?

L. L. Dunnington, a preacher in Iowa City, says that too many of us are like the native who was asked, "If you had 100 sheep would you give 50 of them for God's work?"

"That I would," he replied, "I would be glad to give 50."

"If you had 100 cows would you give 50?"

"Of course I would," he replied.

"But you wouldn't give 50 out of 100 horses if you had them?"

"Oh yes, you would see that I would," insisted the native.

"Well, if you had two pigs would you give one of them?"

The man's countenance fell. "That's not a fair question. You happen to know that I have two pigs."

Happiness And Hay Fever

Information Service TB & RD Association S. E. File. Happiness is a warm puppy, say the PEANUTS folk. But there is not much joy involved if you happen to be allergic to animal dander. If, in other words, you have "hay fever."

The flaky skin from animals triggers an allergic reaction in some people. Ragweed, dust, and mold spores can also cause severe sneezing symptoms. Swollen nasal passages and itchy eyes can sure spoil the fun of summer — the season when lots of plant pollen is swirling around in the air.

The happy thing is that there is something to be done for respiratory allergies. Sometimes antihistamine drugs, prescribed by a physician, may offer relief. The drugs, though, don't affect the underlying sensitivity. Avoiding the substance that triggers the allergic reaction is, of course, the best way to control hay fever.

There is another way. Identifying the offending allergens. This may involve a long series of scratch tests with suspected substances. If the right one is discovered, there is some hope.

Injections containing a minute amount of the allergen can be administered. They do not have to be increased to larger ones. And the body may gradually develop a tolerance. If the injections are begun before the hay fever season and continued for about three months, the allergic reaction may be prevented. The injections, though, may have to be repeated every year. If continued for several years, complete desensitization to the offending substance may result. But, not always.

For the hay fever sufferer, quick cures and quick products can be disastrous. The only sure way to treat his allergy is with a doctor's advice.

Information about hay fever and respiratory disorders is available at your local TB-RD association. It's a matter of life and breath.

Rev. and Mrs. Ruby were in West Palm Beach on Monday on business.

Mrs. H. D. Merriam is recuperating at the home of her daughter Mrs. Muriel Bailey in South Bay, and later this week will go to the home of her daughter Mrs. E. P. Davis in Miami Springs.

Mrs. William Bailey is now home following her recent hospitalization.

Watch Out For Home Accidents

Home accidents were the seventh-ranking cause of death last year among Florida residents 65 and older, a recent report of health authorities shows. Such accidents ranked second as the reason for people being in nursing homes.

Falls accounted for 93 percent of the home accidents, says Miss Mary Todd, County Extension Home Economics Agent. Older persons are more accident-prone because they have less physical control, their feet are less steady and their houses weaker. Furthermore, age affects balance and reaction time. Older persons should, therefore, adopt a more self-protective attitude. Non-skid shoes are a "must."

Homes can present many other booby-traps for older people with failing eyesight. Miss Todd suggests that steps, thresholds, slippery wax floors and throw rugs should be eliminated. Loose stair banisters, insecure stair treads and poor lighting are especially dangerous. In these areas, 10 to 15-foot-candles are minimum requirements about twice that needed by younger persons. Night lights from bedroom to bath are advisable. The bath presents another hazard to older folks. They need a sturdy handhold in the wall near the bathtub and a rubber mat in it to prevent slips or falls. A railing on the bathtub, attached before the bath and removed afterward, will help an elderly person to climb in and out more easily.

When an elderly person understands and accepts his own limitations and becomes familiar with his surroundings, he'll feel more confident and secure, concludes Miss Todd, and he'll be safer, too.

Rogers Blasts Proposal To Recognize Cuba On Anniversary

MR. SPEAKER, Today, the 26th of July, there will be celebrations in Cuba. There will be celebrations because Fidel Castro says there will be celebrations.

But indeed, there is little for the people of Cuba to celebrate. July 26th, the day that Castro started his march to power in Cuba, must ironically and realistically represent the day that the people of Cuba were betrayed.

Today's celebration in Cuba will be in honor of Fidel Castro, not the Cuban people and not the Cuban nation. The nation has been delivered by Castro to the hands of communism and the people of Cuba have been delivered into poverty, hunger and hopelessness.

For these reasons, I was surprised to read the unrealistic comments of a member of the Senate this week. This member of the Senate proposed that the United States change its position toward Cuba, recognize the communist government there and in effect loosen the economic stranglehold which we have employed against Cuba.

He says that the people of Cuba are better off now than they were before Castro. This is not only unrealistic, but shows either a lack of knowledge on the present state of affairs in Cuba, or a refusal to recognize the fact that Castro has turned that island nation from one of the most prosperous countries in Latin America into the beggar nation of the communist world.

I would like to just touch on a few points to indicate what Castro has done to a nation which was well on its way to self-sufficiency.

"The Cuban economy is in shambles. The gross national product in 1967 was approximately the same as it was in 1958, ($2.5 billion) despite the increase in population and vast scientific and technical advances in methods of farming and manufacturing.

"The per capita annual income has dropped since Castro took over. Before Castro, Cuba rated third in Latin America in per capita income.

"Before Castro, Cuba's domestic production satisfied demand for poultry, eggs, beef, milk, cheese and butter, and most other food stuffs. Now there are severe rationing on food. Cubans are limited to 3/4 of a pound of meat per week, or about three pounds per month when it is available and it is not always available. Milk is rationed for those under five years of age. Coffee is limited to ounces per month. Eggs and bread are hard to come by.

"Clothing is also on the scarce list. The ration book in February, 1968, entitled each person to buy two shirts, one pair of trousers and two pairs of shoes a year. But shoes are often impossible to find.

"Before Castro, Cuba had one of the world's leading sugar crops. But since Castro took over, Cuba has never matched the peak production established prior to his regime. This, despite the fact that he has disrupted the entire economy in mad attempts to set records. As a result, all other phases of the economy have suffered, including the educational process and the routine duties of government.

Remember 'Lion Country' Before They Had A Pit To Hiss In?

Adding to the African safari and the Nile monitor. Also in the vicinity of Florida's Lion Country Safari, the $3.6 million ziplines and alligators and tortoises tourist attraction located near Royal Palm Beach, more than 100 imported snakes are being introduced this week into the 600-acre wild-game preserve.

General Manager Bill Dredge said the added attraction, Reptile Wonderland, is being operated by a young couple, Jean and Louis Koen, who had managed the Mittenberg Snake Farm in Africa.

The open pit housing the snakes contains such poisonous and non-poisonous species as the black mamba, box constrictor, puff adder, Egyptian cobra (asp), cape cobra, spitting cobra, boomslang, venomous twig snake, and a 22-foot anaconda along with such other exotic reptiles as the rhinoceros iguana.

WSWN Carries Dolphins Schedule

De Interes En Belle Glade

En Harpenden, INGLATERRA, una maquina británica que extrae la proteína de las hojas verdes, fue ofrecida la pasada semana, como una ayuda para alimentar al hambriento del mundo.

La maquina puede extraer 40 libras de proteína pura, de una tonelada de hojas ordinarias tales como clover, trigo o mostaza.

Esto puede suplir las necesidades de 60,000 personas por año. Fue inventado que sean inyectadas en arena hambrienta de proteína, usando las hojas que crecen en cada localidad y evitando el costo de transporte y distribución.

A esta proteína que luce como una crema de espesura, se le puede dar el sabor que guste a cada cual.

Isolation has become almost standard material for all purposes. It has been accepted as a necessary material, at least in ceilings and walls.
